

The position: UI/UX Designer
Type: Full-time, salary and benefits!
Starting: Immediately

We're looking for a UI/UX Designer with experience creating data-rich web and mobile user interfaces. We need someone who is detail oriented and analytical – someone great at articulating ideas and distilling business requirements, and keen to take ownership of the design side of custom software development projects.

Your job will be to plan and create the visual aspects of business applications from cradle to grave. This starts at requirement gathering, system planning and sitemap design, and extends into creating and editing wireframes through their evolution into polished, finalized flats. You will work closely with project managers and software developers to bridge the gaps between graphic design, the user experience, technical implementation and quality assurance, taking an active role to ensure the final application looks and feels as it should.

No experience/knowledge of HTML or CSS is required, but any front-end web development skills are a HUGE bonus.

We imagine you have around 1-3 years of experience in user interface design and a relevant education. Work samples would be great to see. A cover letter is highly encouraged.

This position requires someone who:

- works well in a team and is confident presenting to clients,
- is self-motivated, creative, trustworthy and independent,
- has strong verbal communication skills, is analytical and possesses a very high attention to detail and consistency.

Your technical skillset contains:

- Strong design and layout skills
- Knowledge of responsive design and best practices
- Experience designing mobile interfaces
- Knowhow of design software (we use Adobe but we're open to other options)
- Knowledge of the software development process
